As for Travel Fun, here are some good ideas of local and surrounding activities and cities.

Richmond, VA

- Lodging Ideas: There are more than the listed, so if you would like additional help with this, please let me know. <http://www.lovethatface.com/contact-cosmetic-surgeon-richmond-va/hotels-lodging.html>
- <http://www.richmondgov.com/visitor/> This is a good link to get ideas of things to do in Richmond. Downtown Richmond has Museums, Theater, Monuments, the James River, Restaurants, and Parks.
- Pony Pasture, Belle Isle, the River District, the Canal Walk/Tour, Maymont House and Park, Carytown, are just a few ideas to get you started here in Richmond.

Washington, D.C. (2 ½ Hours North of Richmond)

- Unlimited Museums, Monuments, Documents, and so much more. Ford's Theater (Where President Lincoln was assassinated) is newly open for Tours. There is shopping (Georgetown is great!), good food, sightseeing, zoo's, theater and arts, history, nightlife, and so much more. If you have never been you should go!
- http://www.thedistrict.com/places_to_go.cfm This is a great website to get the feel for all the District has to offer.

Williamsburg, VA (1 Hour East of Richmond)

- <http://www.visitwilliamsburg.com> Great website for all Williamsburg has to offer.
- <http://williamsburg.com> This website is good for Historic Williamsburg.
- There is Historic Williamsburg and Yorktown right in Williamsburg where everything (Including the people, food, housing) is set to settlement age. There is also an outlet mall, pottery, shopping, dining, and beaches.
- Jamestown is just a few minutes from Williamsburg.
 - <http://www.historyisfun.org> website for Jamestown!

Charlottesville & Shenandoah National Park, Shenandoah Valley (2 hours + Skyline Drive Time West and North of Richmond)

- If you have an appreciation for the outdoors especially in the fall when the leaves are changing, you should do the Skyline Drive through Shenandoah National Park. This is an all day adventure if you do the whole drive. You can exit out halfway through as well. It goes all the way north to the D.C. suburb region around Haymarket, VA.
- <http://www.nps.gov/shen/index.htm>
- You could do Jefferson's Monticello and Vineyard and maybe a couple other GREAT vineyards or Charlottesville one day then head up and the Skyline Drive. From there you could go over to D.C. see some sights for a couple days and then head back down to Richmond or do Williamsburg then head over to Richmond.
